

WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY

Whistleblowers play an important role in the identification of wrongdoing and for this reason, they are key players in a company's governance framework, particularly in the area of risk management.

ReadyTech Holdings Limited (ReadyTech) and its subsidiaries and controlled entities (the Group) recognise that individuals who are considering reporting wrongdoing may fear that their identity will be disclosed and that they will suffer retribution or other detriment by reason of having reported wrongdoing.

ReadyTech encourages a culture of reporting actual or suspected conduct which is illegal, unacceptable or undesirable and any person who reports conduct as a whistleblower who is acting honestly, reasonably and with a genuine belief about the conduct will be supported and protected.

1. Purpose

The purpose of this Policy is to:

- support the Group's values and Code of Conduct;
- ensure that individuals who disclose wrongdoing can do so safely, securely and with confidence that they will be protected and supported by the Group;
- ensure that whistleblower disclosures are dealt with appropriately and on a timely basis;
- provide transparency regarding the Group's processes for receiving, handling and investigating whistleblower disclosures;
- encourage employees and business partners of the Group to have the confidence to speak up and report wrongdoing; and
- help deter wrongdoing.

Words in bold have the meaning stated in section 19 Definitions and appear in bold when first used.

2. Who does this Policy apply to?

This policy covers all Eligible Persons.

Any person in the Group can make a disclosure of Reportable Conduct under this Policy and is encouraged to do so.

3. Summary of Process

ReadyTech will adopt the following process when an individual reports under this policy. A summary of the process is as follows:

	Step 1: Disclosure Whistleblower speaks up about the reportable conduct to a Whistleblower Protection Officer or other Eligible Recipient.
	Step 2: Assess and Manage Whistleblower Protection Officer to conduct a preliminary assessment.
	Step 3: Investigation Whistleblower Investigation Officer will ensure a timely investigation and will keep the Whistleblower Protection Officer informed. The Whistleblower Investigation Officer is to report to the Audit and Risk Committee with respect to the disclosure of and investigation. Whistleblower Protection Officer will keep the discloser updated on the progress of the investigation, where possible.

Step 4: Outcome

Whistleblower Investigation Officer will make their determination. Investigation Officer to report to relevant decision maker on outcomes.

Decision maker will decide what, if any, action should be taken in response to proven matters and report back to Whistleblower Protection Officer

4. How to make a disclosure of Reportable Conduct

Reportable Conduct may be disclosed by contacting a designated Whistleblower Protection Officer or other Eligible Recipient.

Disclosures may be made anonymously, confidentially, securely and outside of business hours. ReadyTech employees can do so via our employee engagement survey tool, details of which can be found in the Company's "People First" Policy.

The Group's Whistleblower Protection Officers are:

- Marc Washbourne, Chief Executive Officer, marc.washbourne@readytech.io
- Melissa Jones, Company Secretary, jones@companymatters.com.au

Disclosure of Reportable Conduct must be based on information that is directly known to the person making the disclosure. This does not include rumours of Reportable Conduct or hearsay. That person must have reasonable grounds to suspect the alleged Reportable Conduct has occurred or is likely to occur. So long as this is the case, the Eligible Person will still qualify for the relevant protections under this Policy even if the information they disclose turns out to be incorrect.

When making a disclosure of Reportable Conduct, whistleblowers are encouraged to clearly communicate that they are making a disclosure of Reportable Conduct and to provide as much information as possible, including any known details related to the Reportable Conduct and any steps that have been taken to disclose the matter elsewhere in an attempt to resolve the concern.

Whistleblowers are not expected to investigate their concerns or to provide their validity prior to making a disclosure of Reportable Conduct.

Persons making a disclosure may advise that they wish to remain anonymous or place restrictions on who knows their identity. The Group will comply with these requests and will still make its best endeavours to investigate an anonymous disclosure. However, there may be limitations in investigating a disclosure where a whistleblower does not consent to disclosure of their identity.

If a discloser wishes to remain anonymous, if possible, they should maintain ongoing two-way communication with the Group so the Group can ask follow-up questions or provide updates and feedback.

If an Eligible Person discloses Reportable Conduct to an Eligible Recipient, the Eligible Recipient must, as soon as reasonably possible and with the whistleblower's consent, notify a Whistleblower Protection Officer to ensure that the Group's mechanisms for protecting and safeguarding disclosers can commence as soon as possible.

Whistleblowers may qualify for protection if disclosures of Reportable Conduct are made to legal practitioners, the police or other regulatory bodies.<sup>1</sup>

The Group will not prevent (whether through a confidentiality agreement or otherwise) an Eligible Person from making a disclosure of Reportable Conduct to a regulator, the police or legal practitioner, but whistleblowers are encouraged to contact a Whistleblower Protection Officer or independent legal practitioner prior to making a "public interest" or "emergency disclosure" in order to properly understand the criteria that qualifies those types of disclosures for protection.

<sup>1</sup> In Australia, this includes the Australian Taxation Office, the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority and the Australian Securities and Investments Commission and where the disclosure qualifies as "public interest" or "emergency" disclosure under Australian law, journalists or members of the Commonwealth, state or territory parliaments.

5. Confidentiality of a whistleblower's identity

It is an offence under Australian law for a person who has directly or indirectly obtained information about the identity of a person who has made a protected disclosure to disclose the identity of that person or information that is likely to lead to the identification of that person, without authorisation or in accordance with applicable laws.

The Group will take disciplinary action, which may include dismissal, against any person who makes an unauthorised disclosure of the identity of a person who makes a disclosure of Reportable Conduct under this Policy or of information that is likely to lead to the identification of that person.

6. Reporting anonymously

An Eligible Person may make a report about Reportable Conduct anonymously if they would prefer. However, the Group encourages Eligible Persons to share their identity wherever possible as this will make it easier for the Group to fully investigate the report and to provide the person with the support and protections described in this Policy.

An Eligible Person can choose to remain anonymous at all times, including over the course of and after any investigation. They are, however, encouraged to remain in contact with the Group and maintain ongoing two-way communication with the Group so that follow-up questions may be asked and the Group can provide feedback.

An Eligible Person who wishes to remain anonymous may wish to adopt a pseudonym for the purpose of the disclosure. They can also refuse to answer questions they feel could reveal their identity at any time, including during the course of an investigation or a follow-up conversation.

Reports may be made anonymously and still be protected under the Corps Act and other applicable law.

7. How will a disclosure of Reportable Conduct be addressed?

The Whistleblower Protection Officers are responsible for receiving, forwarding and acting upon disclosures made under this Policy.

In Australia, this includes the Australian Taxation Office, the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority and the Australian Securities and Investments Commission and where the disclosure qualifies as “public interest” or “emergency” disclosure under Australian law, journalists or members of the Commonwealth, state or territory parliaments.

A disclosure will be acknowledged by the Whistleblower Protection Officer within a reasonable period after the disclosure is received if the discloser can be contacted.

Disclosures of Reportable Conduct will be assessed by the Whistleblower Protection Officer as to whether further investigation is appropriate. The matters will then be referred to a designated Whistleblower Investigation Officer for investigation.

The whistleblower will be informed of the Whistleblower Investigation Officer's appointment and the Whistleblower Investigation Officer will contact the whistleblower as soon as practicable to acknowledge receipt of the disclosure and to establish a process, including expected timeframes, for reporting to the whistleblower on the progress of dealing with the disclosure (except where the disclosure has been made on an anonymous basis).

The whistleblower will be contacted by the Whistleblower Investigation Officer as soon as practicable to discuss the whistleblower's welfare and to discuss a communication process, if required (except where the disclosure has been made on an anonymous basis).

If it is determined that there is insufficient information or evidence to warrant further investigation, the whistleblower will be informed at the earliest possible opportunity. No further action will be taken (except where the disclosure has been made on an anonymous basis).

Where a formal investigation is initiated, this will be an objective, fair, independent, thorough and confidential process, without bias, conducted by the Whistleblower Investigation Officer.

Investigations will be independent of the business unit in respect of which allegations have been made, the whistleblower, or any person who is the subject of the Reportable Conduct.

The whistleblower will be informed by the Whistleblower Investigation Officer of the final outcome of the investigation, where appropriate and possible.

Where investigations substantiate an allegation arising from the disclosure of Reportable Conduct, the matter will be dealt with in accordance with established administrative or disciplinary procedures, which may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment or engagement, and matters may be referred to external parties where appropriate (e.g. in matters that may involve criminal behaviour).

All information relating to a disclosure and its investigation will be retained under strict security and confidentiality.

Unauthorised release of information to someone not involved in the investigation without the consent of a whistleblower will be a breach of this Policy except where the disclosure is required by law or it is appropriate to make the disclosure to a regulator. Only a restricted number of people who are directly involved in handling and investigating a disclosure are made aware of a discloser's identity or information that is likely to lead to the identification of the discloser.

8. Fair treatment of employees mentioned in a disclosure

Any Group employee who is the subject of, or mentioned in, a Protected Report will be:

- informed about the matter in accordance with the principles of natural justice and procedural fairness;
- given a reasonable opportunity to put their case to the Whistleblower Investigation Officer if any investigation is conducted; and
- informed of the outcome of the investigation (but will not be given a copy of the investigation report).

Where an investigation does not substantiate a disclosure made in a Protected Report, the fact that an investigation has been carried out, the results of the investigation, and the identity of any person the subject of the report will remain confidential unless the subject of the report requests otherwise.

9. Protection from detrimental acts or omissions

A person cannot engage in conduct that victimises or causes detriment to a discloser (or another person) in relation to a discloser if:

- that person believes or suspects that the discloser made, may have made, proposes to make or could make a disclosure that qualifies for protection; and
- the belief or suspicion is the reason, or part of the reason, for the conduct.

All persons must abstain from any activity that is or could be perceived to be victimisation or harassment of persons who make disclosures under this Policy.

The Group will take disciplinary action, which may include dismissal, against any person who causes detriment or threatens to cause detriment to a person because they believe or suspect that the person has made, proposes to make or could make a disclosure under this Policy.

For the purposes of this Policy, 'detrimental conduct' includes but is not limited to dismissal, injury of a person in his or her employment or engagement, alteration of a person's position or duties to his or her disadvantage, discrimination, harassment, intimidation, harm or injury to a person including psychological harm, damage to a person's property, reputation, business or financial position, and any other damage to a person.

Australian law provides that a court may order a person who causes detriment to a whistleblower to pay the whistleblower compensation (or other remedies) in respect of any loss, damage or injury suffered because of a disclosure and if an entity failed to take reasonable precautions and exercise due diligence to prevent the detrimental conduct.

A person who makes a disclosure in accordance with applicable laws is protected from civil, criminal and administrative liability in relation to their disclosure. However, these protections do not grant immunity for any misconduct the discloser has engaged in that is revealed in their disclosure.

10. Reporting, monitoring and reviews of investigations

This Policy sets out the minimum standards required for all personnel of the Group.

The Whistleblower Investigation Officer is to report to the Audit and Risk Committee with respect to the disclosure of and investigation of Reportable Conduct.

If a person who makes a disclosure of Reportable Conduct considers that their disclosure has not been dealt with in accordance with this Policy, or that they have been subject to retribution or other detriment as a result of making the disclosure, the matter should be escalated to the Whistleblower Investigation Officer in the first instance or otherwise to the Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee.

The Whistleblower Investigation Officer, in consultation with the Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee, will determine the most appropriate course for handling the matter, which may include informal resolution options or a formal investigation.

Any matters of a criminal nature will be reported by the Whistleblower Investigation Officer, in consultation with the Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee, to the police and, if appropriate, other appropriate regulatory authorities.

11. Other persons and organisations who may be reported to

Under the Corporations Act, a person may also make a report about Reportable Conduct to:

- any director of ReadyTech;
- ReadyTech's auditor or a member of the audit team conducting an audit of the Group; and
- ASIC or APRA.

Such reports will also qualify as Protected Reports.

A person is entitled to make such a report without making a prior report to their manager or to an Authorised Recipient as described in this Policy. However, the Group encourages concerns to be reported to a person's manager or to an Authorised Recipient in the first instance.

Similar protection exists for disclosures related to the tax affairs of an entity under the Taxation Administration Act. The Tax Administration Act provides protection for disclosures of information that indicates misconduct or an improper state of affairs in relation to the tax affairs of an entity or an associate of an entity where the person considers the information may assist in the recipient of that information to perform functions or duties in relation to the tax affairs of the entity or an associate.

Aside from making a disclosure under this Policy, individuals are free to make a protected disclosure at any time directly to an external party, such as ASIC, APRA and the Australian Federal Police, as provided for in the Corporations Act or under any other law. You can find information about reporting to ASIC, APRA and the ATO at the following links:

- <https://asic.gov.au/about-asic/asic-investigations-and-enforcement/whistleblowing/how-asic-handles-whistleblower-reports/>
- <https://www.apra.gov.au/become-a-whistleblower-or-make-a-public-interest-disclosure;>
- <https://www.ato.gov.au/general/gen/whistleblowers/>

12. Legal advice

The Corporations Act also permits a person to disclose information about Reportable Conduct to a legal practitioner for the purpose of obtaining legal advice or representation about the operation or application of the whistleblower protections in the Corporations Act. Any such disclosure will also qualify as a Protected Report.

A disclosure to a legal practitioner for the purposes of obtaining legal advice or legal representation in relation to the operation of the whistleblower provisions in the Corporations Act are protected, even in the event that the legal practitioner concludes that a disclosure does not relate to a disclosable matter.

13. Public interest and emergency disclosures

In limited circumstances, the Corporations Act permits a person to make a report about Reportable Conduct to a member of the Federal Parliament or a State Parliament or to a journalist and for that report to qualify as a Protected Report.

It is important for the person making the disclosure to understand the criteria for making a public interest or emergency disclosure.

For example, a disclosure must have previously been made to ASIC, APRA or other certain bodies as set out in the Corporations Act and in the case of a public interest disclosure, 90 days must have passed since the previous disclosure.

The Group recommends a person considering making such a disclosure obtain independent legal advice to ensure that they understand these conditions if they are considering making a public interest disclosure or emergency disclosure.

14. Advice on whether a matter is Reportable Conduct

If a person is unsure whether something they are concerned about is Reportable Conduct, they may seek confidential guidance from the Whistleblower Protection Officer or an independent legal practitioner.

15. False reporting

The Group will treat all reports of Reportable Conduct seriously and will ensure that Eligible Persons who raise concerns in accordance with this Policy will have the benefit of the protections afforded by this Policy. However, deliberate false reporting will not be tolerated.

False reports could have significant effects on the reputation of the Group and the personal reputations of other people and may also lead to a significant waste of time and effort. Any person found to have made a deliberate false report will be subject to disciplinary action.

16. Protection against legal actions

Unless a report is deliberately false, a person who makes a disclosure that qualifies for protection under this Policy will not be subject to any of the following in relation to their disclosure:

- civil liability (e.g. any legal action for breach of an employment contract, duty of confidentiality or another contractual obligations);
- criminal liability (e.g. attempted prosecution of the discloser for unlawfully releasing information, or other use of the disclosure against the discloser in a prosecution, other than for making a false disclosure; or
- administrative liability (e.g. disciplinary action for making the disclosure).

A person who has made a disclosure of Reportable Conduct is taken not to have committed any offence against any legislation which imposes a duty to maintain confidentiality with respect to any information disclosed.

17. Disclosure that are not covered by this Policy

Disclosures of information that is not about Reportable Conduct are not covered by this Policy and do not qualify for protection under the Corporations Act or the Taxation Administration Act.

In particular, disclosures that relate solely to personal work-related grievances are not covered by this Policy and information relating to these matters may not be disclosed under this Policy.

A matter is a personal work-related grievance if it relates to a person's employment or former employment with the Group and has implications for them personally but:

- does not have significant broader implications for the Group; and
- does not relate to anything done or alleged to be done by the person in relation to Reportable Conduct.

Matters that might constitute personal work-related grievances include:

- a decision that does not involve a breach of workplace laws;
- a decision relating to a person's engagement or the terms and conditions of engagement, including a decision regarding any transfer or promotion applied for;
- raising with the person matters relating to their performance in their role, or any other matters arising in the ordinary course of their engagement;
- any investigation of alleged misconduct by the person, or a decision to take disciplinary action, suspend or terminate their engagement; or
- an interpersonal conflict between the person and another employee.

Sometimes a disclosure about one of these matters may also constitute a report about Reportable Conduct, for example if the disclosure relates to information that suggests misconduct beyond a person's own circumstances or a larger or more systemic issue about the culture or environment of the Group.

If a person believe that this describes their situation then it is recommended that they seek advice from the Whistleblower Protection.

18. Access to this Policy

This Policy will be made available in the Corporate Governance section of the Group's website and the Group's intranet.

A copy may also be obtained from a Whistleblower Protection Officer.

19. Training

The Group will provide training to employees in respect of their rights and obligations under this Policy and will provide training to managers and others who may receive disclosures made under this Policy on how to handle those disclosures.

20. Review of Policy

This Policy and related procedures will be reviewed periodically by the Audit and Risk Committee to ensure that whistleblower reports are being appropriately recorded, investigated and responded to and to consider whether any changes are required to the Policy or procedures.
